

The Feline Crimes Of No. 29

A logic puzzle about four careless cats and one festive tree. Grab a pencil, read the clues below, and fill in the grid. Can you solve the puzzle?

Each cat has knocked one bauble off the Christmas tree — but which cat knocked off which colour bauble, which shape bauble, and in what order?

Chairman Meow jumped down from the window, but not before he'd batted a blue decoration. His was the second casualty.

There are three colours of balls, two of teardrops, two of stars, and only one colour of crescent moon.

Sylvester is sleeping now, but earlier he climbed the tree and dislodged a ball with his left paw.

The grey tabby who was reaching for a star actually caught a gold moon. This decoration was the third one to fall from the tree.

Find the answer by filling out this handy grid!

	First	Second	Third	Fourth	Teardrop	Ball	Crescent moon	Star	Blue	Red	Gold	Purple
Chairman Meow
Tiddlywinks
Sylvester
Professor Purrfect
Blue
Red
Gold
Purple
Teardrop
Ball
Crescent moon
Star

Professor Purrfect was lounging next to the presents when a star decoration fell on her — followed by one of the other cats! In the resulting argument, the Prof knocked down a purple teardrop.

A collection of greetings cards, games, and puzzles! Find out more at www.dissentgames.com/shop or follow @dissentgames on social media.

